Hi all,

Wine Australia has cut back their response below and attached.

Thanks for your inquiry

Wine Australia is a statutory authority, one of the 15 research agencies, which invests levy payer funds and matching Commonwealth funding into the sector's research priorities including addressing changing climate and improving sustainability.

CSIRO is a valued research partner and we work together to ensure the sustainability of the Australian grape and wine sector.

Further information on our strategic plan and our research priorities is available from our website.

Cheers,
Darius
